Cover Letter

Dear Recruiters and Hiring Managers

I am writing to express my strong interest in Front End Web Development and suitability for a development role. As a self-taught web developer with a passion for creative pursuits, I am confident in my abilities to bring value to your team.

Throughout my life, I have always been drawn to creative endeavours, and I have honed my skills in a variety of software programs, including Virtual DJ, FL Studio, Windows Paint, Windows Movie Maker, iMovie, GIMP, Adobe Fireworks, Adobe Illustrator, Reason, Logic Pro, and Pro Tools. My most creative pursuits have been fixated on music production, where I have not only honed my skills as a producer but also gained experience in artist, brand, and event management.

My passion for web development was sparked when a friend suggested it to me at the beginning of 2022. I was immediately struck by the similarities between web development and music production - the discipline required, the ability to achieve goals through individual and group efforts, and the all-consuming nature of the work. As a self-taught web developer, I have learned through online courses such as FreeCodeCamp and Scrimba, as well as through tutorials and coding challenges.

I am at a point now where I am confident in my skills and eager to be in an environment that will challenge me and support me. My passion for problem-solving, combined with my natural affinity for mathematics, has given me a strong foundation for success in web development. I am eager to get stuck in and contribute, learn, and grow as a professional.

In conclusion, I am confident that I can bring value to your team as a Front End Web Developer or Junior Front End Web Developer. My passion, willingness to learn, and resilience as a self-taught web developer, along with my experience in music production, make me a strong candidate for the role. I look forward to the opportunity to further discuss my qualifications with you.

Thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,

Chibu Ihesiene.
